

Newsletter 2Q 2023 & Market Summary

2023 is being ushered in with a decent pickup in the markets through 1Q 2023. The S&P companies have reported positive EPS above analyst estimates of 77.9% and 72.6% reported positive Revenue for 1Q 2023 according to Refinitiv with 53% of companies reporting. These numbers do indicate the economy is picking up slightly. Inflation has dropped to 5.60% and unemployment is low at 3.5%. The Federal Reserve is signaling they will raise interest rates one to two more times until the interest rate is near 5% and then pause, according to Fed Chairman Jerome Powell. They have also indicated that they do not expect to lower interest to zero when the next economic recession occurs. So the new “normal” is maintaining interest rates in the 2% to 3% range on the short end. This means the mid and long term interest rates will be higher. A recession now has only a 50% chance of occurring as forecasted by most economists globally, which we will expand on in our newsletter. The Foresight Mutual Fund Model’s returns through 1Q 2023 were as follows: Conservative +2.09%, Moderate +3.11%, and Aggressive +3.64%, shown netted by the highest Foresight management fee removed from the returns.

Secure Act 2.0: This bipartisan law has been passed which will add many new retirement strategies! RMDs=required minimum distributions from retirement savings will begin at age 73, employer match can be Roth contributions, employees can save up to $2,500 yearly into an emergency savings which can be removed with out penalty, 529 plans after 15 years can roll to a Roth IRA for any funds left over or not used for college costs. There will be an additional catchup of $10,000 yearly for 4 years during age 60-63 beginning in 2025. These are just a few of the highlights see www.finance.senate.gov for the final law details.

I-Bond Investment Idea for idle cash: With inflation at 5.60%, which is still high inflation, the I-Bond or Inflation Bond offered by the U.S. Treasury is something to consider as an investment for idle cash. You can buy up to $10,000 at Treasurydirect.gov each year. The I-Bonds are paying 4.30% interest for the first 6 months for bonds purchased from May 2023 through Oct of 2023! So if you have not bought an I-bond it is not too late to get a great interest rate. The interest resets every 6 months according to inflation in the U.S. With inflation still running high this is definitely an investment to consider to offset some of the inflationary pressures we all feel in groceries, gas, and purchased goods.

Foresight ranked as a Top RIA firm Nationally by Financial Advisor Magazine: Foresight climbed up nearly 200 spots to 482 in the 2021 ranking of RIA firms! This is based on our growth and overall performance as a firm.

Foresight's* Outlook and Portfolio Strategies

2023 has been a volatile market start with January rising, February falling, and March/April rising. Inflation is moderating at 5.60%, and the Federal Reserve is planning to raise interest rates at least one more time in May or June. So what is in store for 2023? Well according to Ed Yardini Research, "The widely anticipated recession is still MIA. It's hard to have a recession when consumer incomes are rising and they are spending more on both goods and services." Many economists now believe there is only a 50% chance we end up in a recession. Liz Ann Sonders, of Schwab, recently describe it as possibly a "Rolling Recession" by sector for several years of which technology just had their recession this past year and is now recovering in 2023. Jeremy Siegel, professor from Wharton Finance at Univ of Pennsylvania, said there is a chance we avoid a recession, we have not reached trough earnings, inflation is coming down, and he believes we are on the cusp of a new bull market. Dr. Kelly, of J.P. Morgan said if we have a recession it is likely to be like wading into a swamp instead of dropping off a cliff.

Business Cycle Framework

The business cycle, which is the pattern of cyclical fluctuations in an economy over a few years, can influence asset returns over an intermediate-term horizon. Cyclical allocation tilts are only one investment tool, and any adjustments should be considered within the context of long-term portfolio construction principles and strategic asset allocation positioning.

economy has skipped a phase or retraced an earlier one.

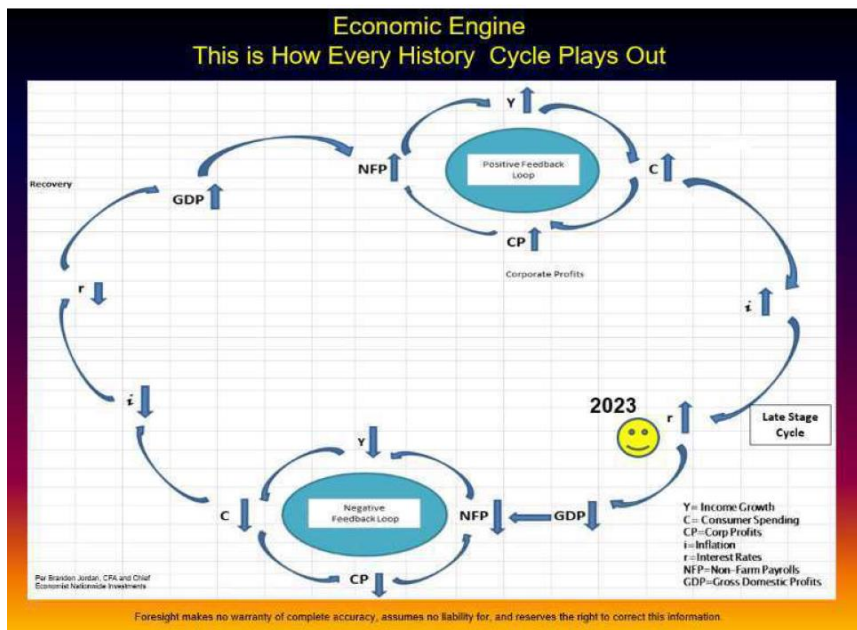

* A growth recession is a significant decline in activity relative to a country's long-term economic potential. We use the "growth cycle" definition for most developing economies, such as China, because they tend to exhibit strong trend performance driven by rapid factor accumulation and increases in productivity, and the deviation from the trend tends to matter most for asset returns. We use the classic definition of recession, involving an outright contraction in economic activity, for developed economies.

Brazil, India, and Mexico finishing their economic cycles and next in line to recession. Most economists believe these recessions will be mild in nature. None of us like bear markets but it is a cycle the market takes every 4 to 5 years.

The Barron's Round Table gathers twice a year in New York at the beginning of each year and mid-year. The Round Table includes eleven of the top economist and money managers globally. On January 9th 2023 the participants agreed on a few fundamentals: The age of free money is over.

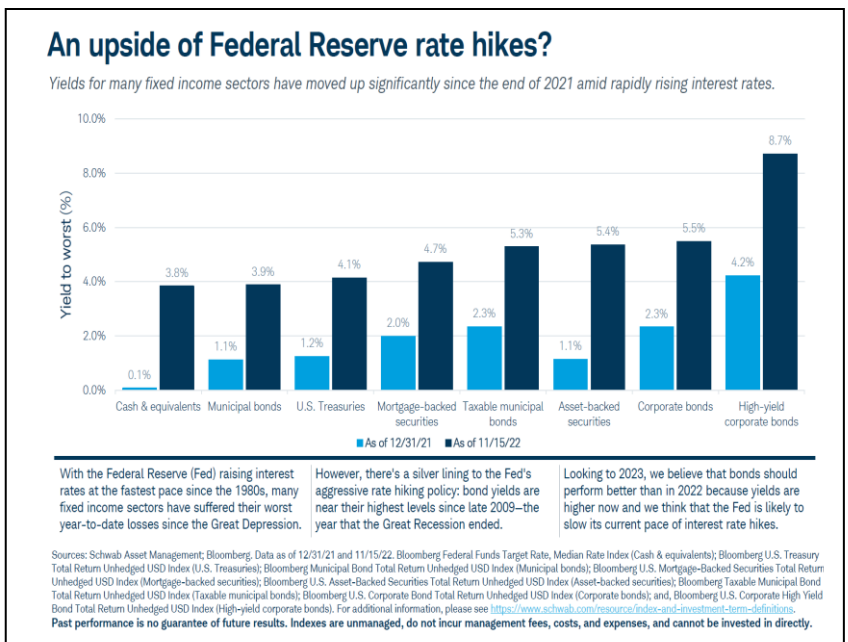

Valuations matter again in equity markets, unlike in recent years, and fixed income finally lives up to its name. Sonal Desai, CIO of Franklin Templeton said, "Central banks are looking at a decade of normalization". By this she means if we slip into recession and unemployment begins to spike the Fed Reserve is not likely to lower interest rates to zero. The Round Table participants also said wage inflation will be sticky for years. The average wage growth is at 6% and they don't see that turning down for years, if ever. The group agreed that the Federal Reserve will likely raise interest rates one to two more times up to 5% or 5.5% in 2023 and then pause. The chart above shows the economic cycle and notice the Smiley Face is at the Late Stage of the Cycle. It is yet to be determined if it slides into the Negative Feedback Loop, which is the next recession or hops over it and begins the next bull market rally. Whatever happens the The Round Table panel does not see the Federal Reserve lowering interest until 2024 and then only down to 2.5%-3%, not zero. We believe there is additional sticky inflation that will take years to unwind, such as rents, hotels/lodging, transportation, healthcare, and education costs. This means the recession, although mild, will not be over quickly and could take on the norm of a traditional recession that takes the better part of a year until it gets moving the economy to growth again. However, according to Mike Townsend of Schwab he said referencing Ned Davis Research it is very rare to have a Democratic President and a split Congress, only seen 3.3% of the time. The good news is when this occurs the market rallies the most with annualized gains of +10.4%! Abby Cohen, professor at Columbia and formerly of Goldman Sachs, said at the Round Table she had some R's for Risk: Reopening of China, which might be good or bad depending on the death rate and Covid variants that release. Russian war risk if it extends beyond Ukraine, and the Rest of the World with slow growth in Europe and UK and the tensions over Taiwan. She also believes foreign investments will have a foreign currency gain as the U.S. dollar is expected to weaken. Mario Gabelli added these 3R's: Rates stay high, Reducing aggregate demand for goods, and the Rhetoric of the Federal Reserve is cautious. He then mentioned the U.S. is going to replenish our oil reserves and this will add to geopolitical tensions on oil price, now at $80 but could go to $110 per barrel! Labor markets are tight and strikes are more prevalent so rebounding inflation is not off the table quite yet. William Priest, of Epoch Investments, ended saying single stock analysis will be key to success because he expects the stocks to end the year flat. He concluded saying, "with the political divide in America and what's happening in Russia and China, an era of stability around the world seems to have come to an end". This tone is heard throughout our research and recent webinars so Foresight has remained cautious and de-risked through 1Q 2023 but we are beginning to add some growth and equities back into the portfolios for 2Q 2023.

The fixed income market is still the silver lining that is occurring because interest rates continue to rise. The drop in bonds of -15% in 2022 has never happened over the last 40 years and to fall in concert with the stock market has never occurred in the last 70 years! This has definitely created an opportunity that Foresight has taken advantage of all year and continues to implement into 2023 if you have custom portfolios with us. This bond market opportunity began in May 2022 and continues today, but will end soon when rates stop rising. The bonds have steep discounts since the bond market dropped -15%, which means you can now buy the prime market bonds below their face value. This means the bonds are on sale but the sale will end soon! Notice the chart to the right the interest rates now available in fixed income, ranging from 4.5% in cash money markets up to 8.7% for high yield bonds. It is very key that you note you must buy these bonds in the prime market and actually own the bond. Mutual funds do not work like this and most mutual funds have dropped or lost money just like the market has done. However, the prime market bonds that are being purchased now are getting this benefit if they are bought as a buy and hold strategy. Foresight has portfolio strategies we call "Barbell Portfolios", which implement the purchase of prime market bonds. These portfolios are created for clients nearing retirement where clients can sell their mutual funds and actually own prime market bonds and stocks paying dividends. These portfolios are benefitting from this silver lining! Please read our Bond Education 101 below if you would like a detail understanding of what the discount bonds mean to your portfolio.

Foresight is maintaining the portfolios for 2023 in slight defensive risk level allocations of about 58:42 for Moderate, 48:52 for Conservative, and 68:32 for Aggressive, we have maintained the reduced equity exposure but are beginning to add equity and some growth back to the portfolios as the market is beginning to rebound since inflation is coming down. We continue to be watchful of the market and are carefully positioning your funds to be able to ride through the rough time with a buffered downside. It is still a wait and see time period so we have decided to play it safer with a slight bit less risk. Foresight sees opportunities in staying broadly diversified at this time. Opportunities continue in U.S. growth stocks, infrastructure, prime market bonds, and most foreign stocks since they are in recession at this time. For Individuals who have personal portfolios with Foresight we continue to monitor the stock portfolios weekly using stop-losses and have been purchasing discount bonds and a few stocks with the excess cash. Foresight continues to build out the laddered bond holdings this quarter as more discount bonds have become available in the market. These have been opportunities to add great interest paying bonds and add stability to the portfolio to help weather the volatility in the market. Additionally, covered call writing has been and continues to be a great strategy to increase returns in a down market. Please call or email if you have any questions or would like to review your portfolios.

Foresight was ranked in the Financial Advisors Magazine in the Top 500 advisors nationally and in the top 150 advisors in Michigan! Both Laurie and Patrick were chosen as Five Star Advisors for 2023. Have a very nice spring time and we hope this bear market will eventually pass, with a high likelihood we will be through the mild recession rebounding nicely year from now!

Bond Education 101: Contact Foresight if you would like to start a Barbell Portfolio because this silver lining will not last forever and is only seen once every 3 to 4 years when the Federal Reserve raises interest rates and the bond curve inverts. It only lasts a brief amount of time and then the bonds will adjust back to normal interest rates. Please understand the bond education are examples to teach a concept about bonds and how they work. These are not actual results and should not be relied on to make investment decisions.

Bond Education 101

The current opportunity in today's bond market allows for the purchase of discounted prime market bonds for your portfolio. The recent correction in the bond market, along with rising interest rates, has caused this rare opportunity to buy "Discount Bonds". The goal of this bond write up is to educate you on how bonds work and for you to gain an understanding of the current opportunities. Contact Foresight if you wish to have us help create a laddered bond portfolio as part of your investment strategy.

- Bonds Face Value are sold at a $1,000, which is called "Par Value" of a bond
- Bonds pay interest to their investors as yearly income
- Bond Yield is determined by adding the interest income plus (discount bond) or minus (premium bond) from the face value of the bond

DISCOUNT BOND

If Interest Rates increase, the price of the bond will decrease

PAR BOND

If Interest Rates remain unchanged, the price of the bond will remain at Par

PREMIUM BOND

If Interest Rates decrease, the price of the bond will increase

What Does this Mean?

- When you buy a bond, it is typically not at par, so that means you usually buy a bond at either a premium or a discount.
 - Premium – is a bond with a price greater than $1,000. A bond purchased at an 8% premium would cost an investor $1,080, $80 or 8% greater than the $1,000 par value.
 - Discount – is a bond with a price less than $1,000. A bond purchased at an 8% discount would cost an investor $920, $80 or 8% less than the $1,000 par value.

- The Yield is affected and dependent on if the investor buys a bond at a premium, discount, or par. The good news is the market has recently allowed for the purchase of Discount Bonds

Focusing on what you can control

Patrick L. Carney of Foresight Capital Management Advisors

By Bridget McCre

As a young fee-only professional, 28-year-old Patrick L. Carney knows that people are going to assess and interact with him differently than they would, say, an advisor with 10-plus years of experience in the profession. This reality doesn't bother the director of personal wealth management at Foresight Capital Management Advisors in Saline, MI, but it has pushed him to accelerate his education and learn as much as he can about financial planning.

"One thing that's very difficult for new advisors in general is getting started and gaining the respect of current and prospective clients. A lot of people come to us looking for an advisor who has a vast array of experience, education, and knowledge," says Carney. "When you're first starting out, you don't have that decade—or multiple decades—of experience that many clients are looking for."

Carney says he stopped worrying about things he couldn't control (e.g., his age, years of career experience, and similar measures) and instead has been working hard over the last six years to earn certifications that position him as a high-level fiduciary. So far, he's earned his CFP®, AIF®, and CIMA® credentials, the last of which he attained by completing the education requirements at the Yale School of Management.

The PEP offers economy of scale and keeps the cost extremely reasonable for all members of the PEP. Please call us today for more information on how to join the new PEP 401(k) plans and offer your employees a new benefit!

I-Bond Investment Idea: With inflation running at 5.60%, which is some of the highest inflation we have seen in years, the I-Bond or Inflation Bond offered by the U.S. Treasury is something to consider as an investment for idle cash. You can buy I-bonds from $25 up to $10,000 maximum at Treasurydirect.gov and up to an additional $5,000 in paper bonds with your income tax refund, however you need to file a form 8888 if you wish to invest your IRS refund in an I-Bond. The I-Bonds are paying 4.30% interest for the first 6 months for bonds purchased from May 2023 through Oct 2023! The interest resets every 6 months according to inflation in the U.S. The interest you earn is federally taxed but you do not pay state or local taxes on this interest. You must hold the bond for at least 1 year and if you cash it in before 5 years you will lose only 3 months of interest as the penalty.

So consider if you receive 6.48% from Nov to April 2023 and then the interest resets in May at 4% the average interest you would receive for the year is 5.24%! Now compare that to money market interest rates or one year CD's in the banks which are averaging 2.15% to 2.75% according to Bankrate.com. The I-Bond looks to be a real winner, especially with inflation running high this is definitely an investment to consider to offset some of the inflationary pressures we all feel in groceries, gas, and purchased goods. Visit Treasurydirect.gov to learn more and open an account if you wish to purchase an I-Bond.

A New Idea! Charitable Remainder Trusts-CRT to Stretch Inherited IRAs for your beneficiaries:

Meriline & Meacham, PA attorneys at law article, Jan 10, 2022, With proper planning, a charitable remainder trust can replicate a "stretch" IRA. Here's how it works according to Meriline and Meacham's article: You provide in your estate plan that on your death an IRA will be transferred to a CRT. This is an irrevocable trust that pays out a percentage of its assets to your children or other beneficiaries for life (or for a term of up to 20 years) and then distributes its remaining assets to one or more charities. A CRT is a tax-exempt entity, so any assets you contribute to the trust -including IRAs- aren't subject to tax unless they're distributed to noncharitable beneficiaries. The longer distributions can be stretched out, the closer a CRT comes to replicating a stretch IRA. It's important to note, however, that the trust's ability to do so depends on the age of your beneficiaries when you die. Contact us for more information.
